

CACI Professionals Supporting U.S. Military Operations Awarded Medal for Valor

Highest Civilian Honor Given by Department of Defense

Arlington, Va., August 14, 2018 - CACI International Inc (NYSE: CACI) announced today that two company employees, Mr. Michael “Tony” Dunne and Mr. Brandon “Ray” Seabolt, have been awarded the Office of the Secretary of the Defense Medal for Valor, the highest civilian award presented by the Department of Defense. Defense Threat Reduction Agency Deputy Director Lieutenant General Darsie Rogers presented the award at a ceremony on August 14.

Mr. Dunne was honored for exceptional gallantry in repeatedly putting himself in harm’s way to assist in countering multiple insurgent threats and evacuating a wounded force member, helping to save lives at the risk of his own. Mr. Seabolt was recognized for his bravery and confidence in supporting effective engagement with an adversary, and for providing tactical advice and assistance in the successful recovery of force members.

Created in the aftermath of the September 11 attacks, the Medal for Valor recognizes government employees and private citizens who perform an act of heroism or sacrifice, with voluntary risk to their personal safety in the face of danger. Mr. Dunne’s and Mr. Seabolt’s medals, along with one other medal awarded on August 14, bring the total number of Medals for Valor to 17 awarded since September 11, 2001. Additionally, these two honors mark the second and third Medals for Valor awarded to CACI employees, with the first being awarded in 2012 to Mr. Dave Jensen.

Ken Asbury, CACI’s President and Chief Executive Officer, said, “On behalf of everyone at CACI, we congratulate our outstanding CACI employees Tony Dunne and Ray Seabolt on receiving this prestigious recognition. We are truly honored and proud to have employees like these, who exemplify the ultimate in bravery and courage to support our country’s most critical national security missions.”
