

CACI Showcasing Solutions at WEST 2019 That Advance U.S. Navy and Marine Corps Modernization: Electronic Warfare, Counter-UAS, and Deep Learning

Arlington, Va., January 29, 2019 - CACI International Inc (NYSE: CACI) announced today it will showcase solutions to support the U.S. Navy, Marine Corps, and Joint Community at the WEST 2019 Conference hosted by AFCEA and U.S. Naval Institute on February 13-15, 2019 in San Diego, CA. In keeping with this year's conference theme – "Sharpening the Competitive Edge: Are We Ready to Compete, Deter and Win Globally?" – CACI will demonstrate leading-edge solutions that enhance military readiness and resiliency to stay ahead of evolving threats.

CACI will exhibit its suite of innovative electronic warfare and signals intelligence capabilities systems, ranging in size from man-packable to vehicle-mounted. These disruptive, software-defined solutions enhance warfighter effectiveness and survivability in today's multi-domain battle. The company will also showcase its SkyTracker@Technology Suite – an award-winning counter-unmanned aircraft system (C-UAS) solution that accurately and reliably detects, identifies, and tracks UAS threats. U.S. government clients use SkyTracker at sensitive facilities across the U.S. and at operational locations overseas.

Additionally, the company will demonstrate how its advanced deep learning and multi-intelligence fusion expertise rapidly delivers integrated intelligence capabilities to the warfighter for improved time-critical targeting. CACI will also feature its enterprise product lifecycle management tools to collect, aggregate, and visualize platform performance data.
