

CACI Wins Prestigious Fifth Edison Award for Electronic Warfare Technology

RESTON, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- CACI International Inc (NYSE: CACI) announced today that it has been awarded a silver Edison Award™ for TLS Manpack, the company's electronic warfare (EW) military solution for dismounted soldiers, enabling the U.S. Army to fight and dominate in the electromagnetic battlespace.

"CACI's work on the TLS Manpack is a clear example of how we invest ahead of need and align to the Department of War's 'commercial first' acquisition strategy," said John Mengucci, CACI President and Chief Executive Officer. "By leveraging the commercial OTA process, we moved from concept to fielded capability years before the original program timeline. This is the strength of our model. We anticipate requirements, apply proven capabilities, and rapidly bring mission-ready technology to the field faster, giving our military a decisive operational advantage."

The TLS Manpack is a proven, mature, and portable system that detects, disrupts, and defeats enemy signals by securing communications, countering threat networks and drones, and unlocking high-bandwidth data access. The TLS Manpack integrates signals intelligence and EW, collection, processing, exploitation, and effects into a single software-defined system for the dismounted soldier.

The Edison Awards honor the world's highest-level innovations, products, services, and business leaders. The awards are operated by the Edison Universe, a nonprofit that recognizes, honors, and fosters innovations and innovators, and are among the most highly regarded and prestigious recognition honoring exemplary technology and innovation.
